Too good to be true?

Zero tipping fees offered on garbage

By Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE — Glades area officials were offered a proposal that sounded too good to be true Monday night in which their garbage would be disposed of at no charge, a plant hiring 200 employees would be built and the City of Belle Glade alone would realize savings and cash revenues amounting to more than $1 million a year.

Kenneth T. MacAlpin of Municipal Energy Consultants, a corporation based in Palm Springs, submitted the proposal and made a presentation to the Glades Area Budget and Policy Advisory Committee (B&PAC) of the Solid Waste Authority.

MacAlpin proposed that his company build a two-plant facility on the land now occupied by the city's landfill that would produce methane gas and methyl alcohol from garbage, with byproducts of cattle feed and metals.

The alcohol would be sold to oil companies to be used in gasoline and the methane would be used to power the alcohol plant, with enough left over to recalcify lime from area water treatment plants, saving the plants some $15 a ton, and to provide the power for water and sewer plants.

The B&PAC heard MacAlpin's proposal just before taking up an alternate contract with BW Energy Systems, Inc. under which BW would get rid of the area's solid waste for a fee of $20 a ton. BW was proposing a process which would have a byproduct of an oil similar to diesel fuel.

"Do you realize," B&PAC member and Belle Glade Commissioner Tom Altman said later, "that this would mean:

- No tipping fee.
- No waste fuel guarantee. (The company said it would accept any kind of solid waste except hazardous wastes, which would be eliminated by law.)
- Lime reclamation from the water plant sludge pits.

- Enough excess methane for utility power.
- 200 jobs.
- An increase in property tax revenues of more than $400,000 a year.
- An involvement in the national energy program.

"I figure the city of Belle Glade alone would get a least $1.02 million a year," he said.

MacAlpin said the plant would be designed to handle 1,000 tons a day, using solid waste collected from sites within a 100 mile radius. He said, for instance, that he could remove garbage from the City of Clewiston for a $3 per ton tipping fee, at the city, and transport it to the plant. He said he would also be using citrus fruit from Highlands County and other regions.

"This is nothing new," he told the committee. "The Germans were using this process during World War II and they're now making alcohol from wood chips but when you do that, you're at the mercy of the market."

"We're after the fuel," he said. "We're trying to stay with a known quantity and we know garbage will always be around. Alcohol is here to stay. Gasohol is being sold in eight states, including Florida so this isn't a fly-by-night operation. Studies have shown that alcohol can be used to make engines 25 per cent more efficient and will give 20 more miles per gallon."

MacAlpin said the corporation will be headquartered in Palm Beach County and plans call for similar plants throughout the state.

MacAlpin also said the company plans to finance the plant with the help of federal funding coming from the U.S. Department of Energy. He said President Carter has already earmarked $20 billion for improving the country's ability to process synthetic fuels and $4.5 billion of that has been set aside to produce alcohol.

Solid Waste Authority Executive Director Tim Hunt confirmed MacAlpin's claim that the company has established contact with the Department of Energy and is working through Congressman Dan Mica's office when he said Mica's aide, Richard McBride, told him (Hunt) over the telephone Monday that Mica is interested and has an excellent chance of getting some of the funding.

B&PAC Chairman Bill Bailey said, however, that the proposal for something for nothing aroused his suspicions.

"I would think," Bailey said, "that it would be best to turn the offer over to the consulting engineers, our financial consultant and our lawyer to go over it with a fine tooth comb. We're about ready to go into a contract with BW Energy Systems but I don't see how we can ignore this."

The other members of the committee agreed and Hunt said he would work up a staff report on the

on 1980-81 millage

Belle Glade holds line

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE — City Commissioners decided in a workshop Monday night to hold the line on property taxes for the coming year, with an eye toward further budget cuts to decrease the amount of taxes assessed and maintain last year's millage.

The commissioners adopted a tentative ad valorem millage of 9.25 ($9.25 per $1,000 assessed value of property) but try to find $47,000 more in cuts to come up with a final figure of 8.6 mills, the same tax as has been assessed the last three years.

The difference is that in 1980-81, the same millage will almost certainly represent a decrease in the amount of revenue for the city and taxes to be paid by property owners, a turnaround from the norm, when the same millage would mean more taxes because of improvements and reassessments on property within the city limits.

The difference is that the voters are fully expected to pass a constitutional amendment slated to be on the Oct. 7 Second Primary election ballot which will increase the amount of homestead exemption homeowners can claim, from $5,000 to $25,000.

If the referendum does pass, and the commissioners are able to find the cuts to maintain the 8.6 millage, city revenues would be decreased from $700,000 this year to $649,320 in 1980-81, the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

But the referendum, because of its timing, and the TRIM (Truth In Millage) bill is playing havoc with the budget process in Belle Glade as well as with other taxing agencies throughout the state and the property appraisers as well.

Because the referendum won't be voted on until after the fiscal year begins, and its language calls for it to become effective on passage rather than the more conventional following Jan. 1, Palm Beach County Property Appraiser Dave Reid had to submit two certified millage figures to the city, one in case the referendum

Belle Glade election races are now filled up

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE — With only hours remaining at press time before the deadline for candidates to qualify for either of two city commission races in the Sept. 9 city election, Commissioner Tom Altman was still unopposed and Mayor-Commissioner Ralph Kirk and former Police Chief Charles Goodlett were still the only entrants in the other race.

There were reports, however, that another candidate would qualify this afternoon, sometime before the 4:30 deadline.

Other than the three candidates already established, who filed as soon as possible on July 11, the first day of the qualification period, City Clerk June Boglioli said that as of this morning, there was only one other candidate's packet out and that had been taken by Alfred "Zack" Woodard.

Woodard said Tuesday he would have a candidate ready to file at 3 p.m. today, after the Herald-Observer's press time. Woodard has said in the past that "his" candidate would file in the Group Two race already occupied by Kirk and Goodlett because he felt Altman was too strong to be beaten.

This will be Altman's fourth attempt to gain election to the commission, and, unless a candidate files against him before 4:30 this afternoon, will be the first time he's been unopposed. He was 22 years old when he first filed as a candidate in 1974, turning 23 before the election. He turned 29 Aug. 1, the date the commission first met to discuss next year's budget.

Kirk will be trying for his sixth consecutive term on the commission. He said when he qualified as a candidate two years ago that would be the last time he would file as a candidate whether he won or lost he said he changed his mind after several people asked him to run again.

Goodlett, who served as both the Belle Glade Police Chief and Public Safety Director before retiring in January, is running for his first elective office but is generally recognized for his insight in city politics because of his 32 years as a city employee.

He talked as early as four years ago about the possibility of running for the city commission after retirement.

The city election will take place at the Fire Station on Southwest Second Street on Sept. 9, the same day as the first general primary election.

If a runoff is forced, and as the filing deadline drew nearer this morning, that is apparently possible only in the Group Two race, if that is where another candidate qualifies, it will take place the following Tuesday, Sept. 16.

Both the seats made vacant by the election are at-large, meaning the candidates may live anywhere in the city, rather than within a certain borough.

Horse trading fees going up

By AILSA DEWING

If you haven't seen any gypsies or other nomadic bands gathering in Belle Glade to do a little horse trading or tell a few fortunes, it might be because they couldn't afford the overhead: $1,000 for an occupational license.

That was the fee set by city fathers back in the early '60s which has been in force ever since.

If it was purposely set high enough to discourage any shady enterprise, where does that leave psychiatrists and psychologists? They are listed among the crystal gazers, seers and spiritualists in the ordinance and assessed the same going rate as the palmists and phrenologists: $1,050 if they live off contributions, $700 if they charge fees.

Monday night city commissioners will hear a first reading (two hours of it) of an amendment to the original ordinance, for the purpose of raising the licensing fees. If it is passed, the fees for the mindreaders of whatever persuasion will go to $1,310 and $875, respectively.

But City Attorney John Baker has told commissioners the entire ordinance needs overhauling and that's a job that will require months to complete, he says.

Presumably, in its future definitive version the ordinance will make a distinction between sooth sayers and certified medical practitioners, but that's only one of myriad complications in the old ordinance.

For example, someone going into the sewing business. If they only intend to make buttonholes and do hemstitching, the occupancy fee has been $5. A $5 license was also required by anyone doing clothing alterations. But if they list themselves as tailors, the fee was $25. On the other hand, a dressmaker can set up shop at home and no occupancy license is required.

Baker told city commissioners at a recent workshop session that he believes the ordinance is "boilerplate" — one not drawn up specifically for Belle Glade but adopted in its entirety from another source.

Such fees, as the $500 one required by anyone staging a marathon walk, Baker says, were undoubtedly passed to discourage such events as took place in the '30s with participants dropping from exhaustion and being carried off to the hospital.

He recommends that any businesses the city believes are undesirable should be prohibited outright, not be levying higher license fees.

Such as the $700 fee required to operate a tattooing parlor?

One such clause, issuance of a license also requires permission of the police, fire or health departments. Such safety regulations should not be a part of the overall licensing ordinance, in Baker's opinion.

One such regulation to be dealt with at a future time could relate to setting up a telescope. The city ordinance says that telescopes may only be set up in vacant lots and must be approved by the police chief, who no doubt is supposed to check out that the aim is stargazing and not peeping.

In the city that bills itself as the "winter vegetable capital of the world," a produce peddler's lot is not an easy one.

According to the law, if the peddler peddles from a stand, the license is $15. From a freight car it's $10 a car. If the peddler is a dealer, the license goes up to $25 and if he peddles from a truck it's $35 per vehicle. (Unless he's peddling wholesale. The city's $25 per day per vehicle.)

And, in addition, the retail peddler "must keep moving." The ordinance states that he's not allowed to stop more than five minutes in one location.

If a peddler can prove he doesn't produce him, however, he doesn't need a peddler's license at all; he needs a grower's permit.

That decision, which went to go into the oyster peddling business. No license is required for that. But if he proposal by the committee's next meeting on Sept. 15.

Committee member Billy McKinstry, representing Pahokee for the first time in almost three years, agreed with Bailey that the proposal sounds too good to be true but added, "I don't see how we can turn this down."

"I think this (MacAlpin's) biggest mistake," Altman said, "was that he didn't offer us a tipping fee of $8 or $9 a ton." He added later that the offer has so many benefits to Belle Glade and the Glades that it generally should be a gamble the B&PAC couldn't afford to take by brushing aside the offer.

MacAlpin offered figures indicating the cost of producing the alcohol would be $1.03 a gallon. He said the company intends to produce 15 million gallons a year which would yield $27,750,000 a year at the market price of $1.85 a gallon, although he intends to sell the alcohol at a somewhat smaller profit than that.

Since part of the agreement stipulates that in case of failure, the plant reverts to the ownership of the Authority, Tim Hunt noted that under the worst of circumstances, the Authority would wind up owning the plant, along with the transfer station now being built.

He also noted the cost of building the transfer station, more than $700,000 now being borne by the Authority, would be absorbed by the company.

In other business, the B&PAC members:

- Heard the beginning of a reading of the contract proffered by BW Systems but interrupted that reading when it became clear a major portion of the contract, would have to be the subject of major items that happened.
- Agreed to determine the story of why McKinstry had been dropped from the mailing list and Pahokee had been dropped from the B&PAC. McKinstry said he had simply stopped receiving notices of meetings. Attorney Jim Adams said he would check into what happened.

The problem came up in September 1977, when Pahokee refused to ratify the agreement between the city and the Solid Waste Authority because Pahokee's cost of transporting garbage to the then-proposed multi-faceted garbage disposal facility wouldn't be subsidized by the other three participating agencies.

Adams said Monday night he believed that was when Pahokee ceased its role as a participating agency. McKinstry asked, if that were the case, how he had been a voting member of the B&PAC before the agreement between the Solid Waste Authority, Palm Beach County and the cities of Belle Glade and South Bay.

sell fish along with the oysters, the charge is $100, under the existing fee schedule.

He could opt to peddle newspapers instead, but that's a bit tricky too. If he limits his merchandise to newspapers, peanuts and popcorn, the fee is $5. Add candy bars and the fee goes up to $10.

And, by the way, it's against the law to sell popcorn or peanuts in city parks — according to the licensing ordinance.

If today's psychologists and psychiatrists think they're in strange company among the seers and palmists, they'll probably be just as dismayed among the "professionals."

Among the "practitioners" in the ordinance they'll find crayon artists, magnetic healers, magicians and sex experts. But not tax consultants, although the license fee for a tax consultant is the same as for a tax expert.

And the difference between setting up as a carpenter or a cabinet maker is $200.

Is a manicurist who works for a barber shop different from a manicurist who works in a beauty parlor? The licensing ordinance thinks so. A barber has had to pay and extra $4 if he adds a manicurist. A beauty shop owner, however, doesn't have to pay extra $4 if he adds a manicurist.

And then there's an elitist group that doesn't have to buy occupational licenses at all. They include independent widows with dependent children and anyone over 65.

But there are some categories where the payment can't exceed $500. And they can't hire out as astrologers, clairvoyants, spirit mediums, palmists, tellers or mental healers. How about psychiatrists or psychologists? On that point, the law is not specific.

Starting with a $68,000 shortfall in revenues, assuming the city would make with $6.6 million at the rollback level, the commissioners first added $7,400 to pay for a year's worth of special insurance they had agreed to purchase earlier during the workshop, bringing the shortfall up to $75,400.

Then the commissioners started whittling away at the budget they had already cut during the regular budget sessions by chopping out $12,000 for a proposed dental plan, slicing $15,000 off the $75,000 street paving budget and eliminating another $2,000 the city had been paying Mrs. Janita Johnson for her services he had earlier performed at the Municipal City Center.

After eliminating that $29,000, the commissioners would still have to cut another $47,400 in order to balance the budget at the 8.6 mill rollback figure, Altman said he believed he could come up with the necessary cuts in 24 hours.

The special insurance policy the commissioners had earlier authorized was proposed by Milton Carpenter, the city's insurance consultant. Carpenter said the policy, which would provide $5 million coverage for the $7,400 premium, provides liability coverage for the city, the commissioners and city employees in the event of a civil suit.

The city previously hasn't carried any liability coverage. Some of the commissioners said they thought the coverage has been provided.

Carpenter cited an example during the workshop, bringing in when he told a building inspector in St. Petersburg who erroneously issued a permit for a shopping center to be built in an area without the proper zoning.

Carpenter said the city, the building inspector and some of the commissioners were being sued for about $1 million each because the commissioners were forced to rescind the permit after the shopping center work had been done and money spent.

He said the coverage was available in the range from $1 million to $10 million and could be obtained somewhere from $3 million to $5 million.

In other business, the commission:

- Met with directors of the Glades Mental Health Center and requested them to initiate whatever internal security measures allowed under the law for the Crisis Center on Southeast Avenue E to prevent patients from leaving and wandering in the neighborhood.

The request was result of a complaint last week by Paul Hawkins, who lives immediately behind the center.

The commissioners said, and the directors agreed, it wouldn't be desirable to erect a fence around the center's yard but some internal security measures would be desirable.

Decided to answer a question from the Palm Beach County Municipal League by asking they were satisfied with the city's closing hours set for bars. The League asked in the questionnaire if the city would cooperate with other municipalities in the county in setting a uniform closing hour. Closing hours in the city are now 3 a.m.

Responded to another questionnaire by saying there has not as yet been definite information on the city by Cuban or Haitian refugees. There was some discussion about whether health services had been implemented but that was no direct impact on the city.

Kolb qualifies

DELRAY BEACH—Richard L. "Dick" Kroh, a Republican from Delray Beach, filed his candidacy Monday in Tallahassee, to run for the Florida House of Representatives, District 79.

A civil engineering designer with the West Palm Beach firm of Kimley-Horne and Assoc., Kroh has been active within the Republican Party for many years through local GOP clubs and numerous campaigns, which include serving as the county finance chairman for Jack Edward's gubernatorial race in 1978 and campaign coordinator for Bill Bailey's Palm Beach County Commission race in 1976.

Kroh also stated that he strongly favors de-regulation of government control. "We must begin to turn our government around so that it serves the people again and not the government controlling the people."

"Individual freedoms have been seriously infringed upon: I want my daughters to have all the opportunities I have had," he said.

In addition, Kroh feels that his active involvement and participation in the local Republican Party over the past years qualifies him to seek his party's nomination for the Dist. 79 seat. "I feel my trust and integrity have been established and that I am the person best qualified within the party to face the Democratic incumbent in the Nov. general election," said Kroh.

Kroh said he is married and the father of three daughters.

Currently the Vice Chairman of the Palm Beach County Republican President's Council, Kroh has been active within the Republican Party for many years through local GOP clubs and numerous campaigns, which include serving as the county finance chairman for Jack Edward's gubernatorial race in 1978 and campaign coordinator for Bill Bailey's Palm Beach County Commission race in 1976.

Kroh also stated that he strongly favors de-regulation of government control. "We must begin to turn our government around so that it serves the people again and not the government controlling the people."

Sade qualifies

Marshall Sade, former mayor of Lake Clarke Shores and Republican candidate for county commission in 1978, has announced his candidacy for county commissioner from district 3.

The former mayor, vice-mayor and councilman is also an elected member of the republican executive committee. He has been a vocal proponent of less government and more individual responsibility.

A working pharmacist, he owns his own pharmacy on Lake Worth Road in suburban Lake Worth.

He said his past campaign stressed an open mind to county problems, easy access to county offices and officers, both elected and appointed.

He has opposed unionizing of county employees, pointing out the vast amount of problems that striking public employees bring to the public, who pay their salaries.

He is in strong favor of using beach bond monies to purchase new beaches and parks rather than using those dollars to develop existing parks. Sade also wants the contingency fund to be used only for emergency, not for individual pet projects.

Sade is married to his wife of 24 years, who teaches at Forest Hill Elementary School. His older daughter is also a teacher; his young daughter is a senior at Forest Hill High School; his son is in the United States Air Force stationed at Homestead A.F.

CRACKER

BY DEAN JONES

"We have met the enemy and they are us." was one of the greatest quotes to come out of the mid-20th century so far as I'm concerned, rivaling Churchill's comment of "Never have so many...as the RAF during the Battle of Britain."

The first quote, of course, was made by Walt Kelly, the creator of Pogo Possum, who is running for President. I was overjoyed to discover this week...Pogo is running, I mean, not Kelly.

I think it's time we put a marshmallow in the White House, especially when it's someone like Pogo, who has his head together to the point he'd rather go fishing.

"Gimme someone," to misquote Big Julius (Caesar), that's what we need. The time and eats all the time and don't think about nothing at no time."

That's as opposed to someone, "who has that lean and hungry look. Oh, he's sippin' that Air Wick and nibblin' that No-Dax and sits in the little house behind the house and meditates," not to mention someone tired of growing peanuts or hosting Death Valley Days.

And all that's why I was so glad to get the flyer from Pogo Headquarters the other day talking up the Pogo for President campaign.

And what is the Pogo for President campaign? Thought you'd never ask.

"Basically," the campaign literature says, "the campaign is a populist plea for Pogo to put down his fishing pole and take up the banner and prospect of national office. The campaign is likewise a nationwide effort to get some of the millions of people who never bother to vote to put down their own fishing poles and participate in the elections. Finally, it is a golden opportunity for Pogo-lovers of every political stripe to once again enjoy Pogo's humorously innocent views of the American political process."

One thing about it, while he may find it impossible to find an innocent involved in American politics today, the whole process is humorous...at least when it's not boring to the point of being mind-stalling.

And anybody who doesn't believe that didn't watch more than five minutes of either one of the political conventions or pay the slightest attention to any of the presidential primaries.

Pogo is not yet actually running for President," the release goes on, "and, in fact, has gone fishing. This hasn't deterred most of his swamp followers however; several of whom are already diving up the assorted cabinet, sub-cabinet and pantry positions which they believe are rightfully theirs."

These guys better watch it. They're getting uncomfortably far away from humor for humor's sake and uncomfortable close to Coke, the real thing...which is somewhere close to the Atlanta White House, or so I've been told.

"Pogo is a native-born American marshmallow of the genus Hidelphidie. This allows him to be both didactic and delphic - obvious qualities for any Presidential candidate (sadly lacking in the Democratic, Republican, Libertarian or Andersonian candidacies). Pogo also has extensive past political experience, including two prior presidential efforts in 1952 and 1966. (That probably proved a post-um candidate's best a popular general because those who preferred Pogo were beaten out by those who like Ike.) Pogo is good, kind, considerate, thrifty, patriotic, honest, tolerant, fair, and, above all, reluctant. He also has a prehensile tail to help him get a handle on world affairs. Finally, unlike some past presidential prospects who were merely born in a log cabin, Pogo was actually born in a log. That fact, we imagine, makes him, or it, or both, true Presidential timber."

And what are Pogo's positions?

"His favorite position is quietly sitting by the banks of a bayou waiting on catfish. He allows as how his positions on domestic and world affairs will be more fully developed as his supporters more fully discover his campaign plans for him. His position on catfish, however, remains the same: they should be lined up neatly, fin to gill, in a frying pan large enough to keep them out of office."

I'll have to admit, that's my position on catfish. I like 'em but would you want your daughter to marry one?

Too good?

When something sounds too good to be true, it usually is and it behooves responsible persons to take a cautious attitudes to such offers...but to turn down or even delay too long on taking action on such an offer could be just as imprudent as a number of Cincinnati residents a few years ago.

Just on a lark, and to get their reactions, a well-off resident of that Ohio city decided several years ago to try an experiment.

He went down to the local bank, withdrew a stack of $50 bills (and this was when $50 was a week's wages for a lot of people), took up a position on a downtown street corner and offered them to passersby.

There were no strings attached. He was just trying to give away money but in the two hours he stood there, only one person took him up on his offer.

That's apparently the kind of offer the Glades area was made Monday night, when a company offered to take all the garbage generated in the area without charging a dime in tipping fees.

Not only that but the area would get the benefits of bringing in a plant which would hire 200 employees, supply excess methane gas to supply time to area water treatment plants at a reduced price and power for local utilities, property taxes and an estimated income of $1 million a year, not to mention the prestige of breaking new ground in the production of fuel at a time when the nation's power users will be growing thirstier and thirstier for any kind of fuel.

Another side benefit will be the pleasure we can get knowing that by the production of 15 million gallons of alcohol a year, we'll have our own bit of sweet revenge on OPEC nations that now seem to get the greatest pleasure out of gouging us more and more for every gallon of gasoline and oil we import.

That's a lot of something for nothing and, on the face of it, has to be the greatest thing to come down the pike since indoor plumbing.

But for the overly suspicious, it would be good to remember one thing that never actually came out during the presentation, although it was implied...the fact the company would be getting its raw material free of charge. That's their benefit and if it also benefits us, why should we complain.

The only thing left, it would seem would be to see if it's practical. If it is, the Solid Waste Authority members would be incredibly negligent to let it get away from them.

A point to ponder, for instance, is the sure knowledge that anyone who puts up $64 million to build a plant is darn sure going to know there's an excellent chance that plant will pay for itself.

If they want to pass out $50 bills, we'll take a double handful.

Letter to the Editor

My heart cries out to give an open witness to God's gracious loving care and guidance in my life for the past 79 years - Aug. 15 was my birthday anniversary.

My Christian parents, Pahokee pioneers, loved one another deeply. Thus, in our home, I first knew love. I committed my life to the Lord Jesus Christ as the age of eight, so I know the meaning of the faith and answered prayer!

I know the joy of motherhood, having been blessed with a wonderful daughter and son who have grown into Christian citizens, also grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

I've had at my side for 59 beautiful years the kindest, gentlest, most considerate human being I've ever known so I know what marital love and happiness are!

Flag football league forming

BELLE GLADE - Men's flag-football will begin Sept. 22. All games will be played Monday and Wednesday evenings at Airport Park beginning at 7 p.m. Two games will be scheduled for each night.

Registration for flag-football will be open Monday Aug. 15. The last day to register a team is Monday Sept. 15. All forms must be turned into the Recreation Department at the Belle Glade City Hall before 5 p.m. that date.

The entry fee this year is $125 per team.

The city Recreation Department is searching for qualified flag-football officials. If you know of anyone not playing in the league and interested in officiating please contact the department immediately at 996-0100.

For 50 years I have lived here in the great Glades area, where good people are kindly concerned about others. They have enriched my life through friendship and provided for me many opportunities and avenues of Christian community service.

And, because I've known all of these, I know what real wealth is!

To our Loving Heavenly Father God, be the glory! Praise His Precious Holy Name!

The Cuban count

The Cuban refugees who immigrated to Florida during the now-famous Sealift won't be counted by the Bureau of the Census until 1982, according to the bureau's director...but why should that be surprising?

An undercount by the census bureau should be something the people in the Glades should be getting used to by now. There are still people in the Herald-Observer office, for instance, who haven't been counted as yet and we've made no bones about it in print.

So how can we expect the bureau to count newly arrived Cubans when the bureau's numerator can't find native Floridians who advertise it in the newspaper?

Railroad crossing to close

BELLE GLADE - The Florida East Coast Railroad crossing on SR 715 at Southwest Ave. will be closed for repairs from Monday, Aug. 25 through Saturday, Aug. 30, according to an announcement by Charles R. Walker Jr., director of the traffic division of FEC.

Walker requested that during this period, motorists are being requested to use SR 80, US 411 (Main Street) and North Canal Street or seek alternate routes to reach their destination.

Besides the laying of new rails, the repair job includes resurfacing of the crossing and a widening of the road to install a left turn lane.

Remember When?

Taken from the files of The Everglades News, Everglades Observer, The Belle Glade Herald, and The Belle Glade News.

15 Years Ago

Belle Glade was due to receive $35,000 in state funds in its efforts to convert part of Terry Island into a recreation area. Work in the past had been done by prison labor under Police Chief Charles Goetz.

Glades General Hospital budget for 1966 was $884,880 with a 2.1 estimated millage. South Bay City employees went under civil service for the first time.

25 Years Ago

Steps were taken by the Palm Beach County Commissioners to sell $750,000 revenue certificates of which $100,000 would be used to build county administrative offices in the Glades.

Pahokee's Blue Devils began pre-season practice under Coach C. Webb Pell and Assistant Coach William D. Howard.

40 Years Ago

Belle Glade city councilmen had prepared a budget of $34,710 for the coming year. The construction was near and end, according to The Belle Glades News, and editor and publisher Paul Karlin commented that the Glades would miss the weekly payrolls.

Sam Chastain announced he would plant Brazilian oaks on every canal bank of his 1400 acre development north of Canal Point to serve as a winter windbreak during the vegetable-growing season.

Our illegal alien mess

Dunk's Almanac

By H.G. DUNCAN

The judiciary has done it again. A federal court judge in Texas has ordered the state to educate, at state expense, the children of the illegal aliens in Texas. The Mexican aliens — illegal aliens, that is — are delighted at this ruling as it will give the kids a chance to get out of the barrios and to earn more than $3.00 per hour, "Ernesto" of Texas. Now pardon me, but I must have missed something.

I realize how hamstringing our Border Patrol is in catching even an appreciable percentage of the flood from south of the border which enters this country illegally. I was under the impression, however, that following that megal essay, the entrant remains in a criminal status as long as he is in this country. His taking up residence and his procuring a job doesn't do a thing to change that one basic, crucial fact.

The obvious question is: Once the children of illegal aliens register for school, why does not the Border Patrol follow them home, arrest the entire family and send them back whence they came?

If this question reflects on my ignorance, yes, my stupidity, then allow me another.

If we are not going to ship these fortune-hunters back home once they are identified, why must we bear the expense of a Border Patrol? Perhaps we should place "welcome" signs at 100-yard intervals along the border and disband the Border Patrol and make them transient officers so they can ensure that these illegally-entered rag rats stay in school. That would surely be in keeping with Carter's human rights philosophy, and would immeasurably please bleeding-heart federal judges from the Mississippi to the Perdenales to the Colorado Rivers.

Our laws on immigration have become so voluminous and complex that I doubt anyone, especially judges, understands them.

How is it possible that aliens can enter this country, legally or illegally, and immediately start reaping the benefits of our welfare state? They are admitted to VA hospitals while American veterans wait in line for admittance. They draw from the Social Security kitty without ever once contributing a dime. They go to the head of the long waiting-lists for federally subsidized "senior citizen" housing.

Last year the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) organization did a study and found some shocking facts. Among the Vietnamese boat people were a considerable number of admitted, former Viet Cong and members of the North Vietnamese Army. In case your memory has dimmed, these are the guys who were trying to kill your sons, fathers and husbands. They hence showered on them by this government surpassed the benefits given to the Americans who fought them. Friends, that's weird!

In a small town in west-central Ohio there is a Cuban refugee who teaches Spanish at the local high school. She demanded from the township committee free grave plots in the cemetery because "I'm a Cuban refugee."

The recent influx of Castro's reflects have rioted over what they considered slow-moving processing so they could get out of their semi-confinement and walk the streets of gold.

Dade county drivers' license examiners have been assaulted by Cuban refugees because they had the temerity to require the Cubans to do like the rest of us slobs in getting a driver's license.

The caretakers of the Orange Bowl were in fear of their safety due to the threats from the Cuban refugees temporarily housed there instead of the gutter. A large group of Cuban refugee homosexuals is being well-net by their American brethren in San Francisco.

I find it most difficult to understand these things. I shall certainly have them in the forefront of my thoughts come election day.

Balky candidate threatens to sue Belle Glade over oath

BELLE GLADE -- A would-be candidate for the City Commission Group One seat in the Sept. 9 city election threatened to file suit against the city when his last minute attempt to qualify ended today in a shouting match in the city clerk's office.

John L. Asberry Jr., who gave his home address as 1102 S.W. Ave. A, appeared in City Clerk June Boglioli's office at 3:15 p.m. today.

Mrs. Boglioli said Asberry, who came in with Alfred "Zack" Woodard, a Florida Rural Legal Services consultant, had already completed a notarized oath saying he, among other things had been a resident of Belle Glade for the past year.

When Mrs. Boglioli was administering the oral oath, however, Asberry balked when she reached the portion concerning the residency requirement, saying he has been a resident for "a month."

Asberry and Woodard then left the office and returned at about 3:40 p.m., telling Mrs. Boglioli they would, "see you in court."

In the meantime, Mrs. Boglioli had called City Attorney John Baker, who told her she couldn't complete the oath. Baker came to Mrs. Boglioli's office and, when Asberry and Woodard returned said he was representing her.

Woodard refused to talk to Baker however, and Mrs.

Boglioli was letting Baker speak for her.

Woodard and Asberry left the second time and returned shortly thereafter, throwing the written oath and other forms on Mrs. Boglioli's desk and said they considered Asberry in the race against incumbent Commissioner Tom Altman.

As of 4:30 p.m., the closing time, Baker, Altman and Mrs. Boglioli were conferring in Mrs. Boglioli's office.

Child's consent form available

BELLE GLADE -- It's impossible, by their nature, to make complete plans to cover possible emergencies but a new form recently drawn up by Glades General Hospital can make it a lot easier to get emergency room treatment for children.

According to state law, the only situation in which a child can be treated by a doctor, without the consent of the parents or legal guardian, is in a life and death case, according to Amy Y. Tecosky, the hospital public information officer.

"(An emergency) can happen," Mrs. Tecosky said, "that one time you leave your child with a neighbor, grandparent, brother or sister or a sitter. The sitter rubs the child to the local hospital emergency room only to discover that the hospital cannot render treatment."

Mrs. Tecosky said the law allows for one ironic situation most people wouldn't consider.

She said the parents of a child can give consent that child but if a minor is the unwed mother of a child, she can give permission to treat her child but she would have to gain consent of her parent or guardian before she could be treated.

Mrs. Tecosky said that

Funeral service held

NOBIE SANDERSON

BELLE GLADE -- Funeral services for Nobie Sanderson, a resident of the Glades since 1932, were held Monday, Aug. 18 at the Wetherington Chapel in Pahokee with the Rev. Sherrill Tillery officiating.

Mrs. Sanderson, 75, was a native of Wheeler County, Georgia and made her residence at 1600 N.W. Ave. F Place. She was a member of Pahokee Chapter #184, Order of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include her husband, Nolan Sanderson; three sons, John E. White Sr. of Belle Glade, Truitt M. White Sr. of LaBelle and Edward Lamar Wynn of Pahokee; a daughter, Mary Frances Hart of Belle Glade, 16 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Palbearers were her grandsons, Wetherington Funeral Home of Pahokee was in charge of arrangements.

situation wouldn't apply, however, if the minor parent is married.

To answer the problem, Mrs. Tecosky said, the hospital has come up with a prior consent form, which can be filled out in advance, while there's no emergency, while the form can be placed on file at the hospital. A copy would be kept by the parents.

Summer crappie can be caught

By LORNE RACHOIT

Along this time of year dedicated crappie (speckled perch) fishermen begin to think of the cooler weather to come. They are somewhat more than a little aware that the advent of the cooler days brings pronounced activity on the part of this much sought after fish. Not that he is the greatest fighter among the panfishes but he is abundant and as table fare is hard to beat.

For some reason crappie fishermen just disappear in the hot days of summer. Perhaps it is because they think the crappie disappear also. Not so. Crappie devotees I have known and still do pursue this delightful species year round. The numbers of these fishermen are not great but those who work at it get fish. And in good numbers and size. They use the jigging method matched to the lure of the time you are in the Rim Canal and see somebody beating the water furiously from their boat with a jig or with the spinik pole itself, don't shoot away. It may well pay you to take a little time to see exactly what it is they are doing. For some reason known to these individuals and presumably the crappie, this activity does attract the fish. After a short spell of beating the water the jig is lowered and activated in short hops straight up and down. A lateral jigging method is also employed. Patience is the key. Unless you are thoroughly familiar with the waters you are fishing it may be necessary to go from brush pile to brush pile, from downed tree to downed tree and to grass fringed drop-offs. Like the dictionary says, "effort" comes before "fish". And at times it takes real and prolonged effort. There is, however, an easy way. Dead jigging or slow trolling. Both methods are used in our Rim Canal. In dead jigging the most popular approach is to use ultra light tackle with the reel spooled with 8 pound line. Four or six pound line is even better. Jig of 1/16, 1/12 and 1/8 oz. are preferred. A small split shot is attached to the line, usually 6 to 8 inches above the jig. The color of the jig is very important. Crappie are more than a little selective when it comes to color. The color that works today will not necessarily work tomorrow. As a matter of fact any given color may not work within an hour of when you begin to use it. It is necessary to change colors frequently at times until you hit the right one. The best colors? That is always a good question. And not easy to answer. Here in Okeshobee waters, red/green/yellow, black, blue, white and sometimes pinkish hues are proven producers. Keep changing colors until you find the right one. Some of the better spots to fish are the open water in the canal in the Rim Canal proper. The boat should be anchored near the canal edge and the casts made toward the center of the canal. The retrieve is accomplished by tucking the butt of the rod into your tummy and keeping the tip dead still at the 10 o'clock position. Never move the rod to impart any wiggle or other movement to the jig as it is returned to the boat. Reel as slow as possible. Only fast retrieve is the lure off bottom. The strike, when it comes, is usually felt as a very gentle bump. The hook can be effectively set by a mere flick of the wrist. The fish must be played carefully as hooks tear out of its papyrus mouth very easily.

These fortunate enough to have a good depth finder can locate schools in these areas by cruising same over slowly. The slower the better. Schools will show up as blips on your instrument and once located it is only necessary to ease off and cast back to the hot spot. Keep in mind that schools will show up as blips on more of water the fish may be holding at an 8 to 10 foot depth. Once you recognize this you can retrieve your lure through the more productive waters. If you don't have a depth finder, and keep in mind that crappie have been taken by this method long before depth finders were invented, then visual observation can be of great assistance.

Using this method to locate fish is to simply let the boat lie at rest while you eyeball the surface of the water. Crappie will come to the surface periodically and can be spotted by the little "flap" made by small salt water carfish. Not the sudden break like anything resembling that made by a gar or mudfish. It is exclusive to the crappie and gives away its position. This may be Mother Nature's way of giving the fishermen a break . . . if he uses his eyes.

These "flaps" may be many feet apart. The crappie is ever moving and covers a lot of territory within a given area in a short time. By paying close attention you can pretty well diagnose the perimeter of the activity and cast your lure accordingly. There are many, many places in the canal where you can find crappie and once you have several places picked out you can fish from one to the other, retracing your pattern when indicated.

Slow trolling for crappie is another favorite summer pastime. Much is done by using a small outboard motor with the length of line trailed influenced by how far the current created by the propeller goes out behind the boat. Fish just near the boat are the smaller of turbulence. A far better and quieter way is to use an electric trolling motor. Over the years it has also become the more effective way. The tackle used is extremely simple. A 7/4 foot fiberglass jig pole is an excellent choice. To the tip of the pole add a length of line not more than 8 feet and not more than 8 lb test. Two poles are better than one.

The trolling motor, ideally, should be mounted on the boat transom. I suppose a front

Area fishing report

Fishing activity has been on the upswing this past few days. Bass, bluegill, shell-crackers and even snook have been taken.

For some reason or other, the Rim Canal is holding all of the above varieties in abundance. From the east section of the canal north of Belle Glade all the way around the southern edge and on through to the western extremities fishing has been good.

No one area appears to stand out over any other so, if you're in the mood, pick up your favorite lures and have a whiff at it. Alvin's Bait and Tackle (Mildred Ford) up Moore Haven way advises many bass were caught this past weekend. Fish to six pounds came up a taste of the yearling variety. Bluegills were exceptionally active with live crickets and live worms producing limit catches for many.

At the Jolly Roger Marina (Pat Childress), in Clewiston reports bass to seven pounds. Guided parties had the best results. Other bass of the cool variety came in good numbers from the Florida worms, spinner baits and popping bugs did the damage. Bluegills were active throughout the Rim Canal areas, are running to size and live crickets, bluegills and worms and bluegills were caught. Bass were taken in the deep grass beds and in the Canal. Bluegills in the Canal on live crickets snook to over 12 pounds also in the Canal, primarily in the deep grass beds and at times appear to be more than anxious to take anything lure offered to them.

Tip of the week

A good first aid remedy is meat tenderizer that you can buy in any grocery store. Simply make up a paste of this item and water and apply it to the wound. It not only eases the pain, but will keep the wound clean. Medical people

Drowning alert

Does water damage a child's lungs?

The damage is immediate. It is extremely critical for everyone to be aware that as soon as the child is found, no matter how long he has been submerged, cardiac pulmonary resuscitation should begin immediately, and even more specifically mouth to mouth resuscitation. The quicker you are able to get oxygen into the child's lungs, the more likely he will survive the submersion and have less brain damage, or lung damage on a long term basis. Unfortunately, water in the lung is devastating. What time of day do most drownings or near drownings occur?

The peak hours for drowning are from 4 to 7 p.m. . . around the dinner hour.

If a child has been submerged, what do you do?

Parents should know that if they find their child has been submerged, don't wait for the rescue squad, but immediately begin mouth to mouth resuscitation and send someone to call the rescue unit. Following a submersion in the critical time, the child is without oxygen and providing immediate oxygen can save the child's life and hopefully alleviate permanent lung damage or lifetime complications.

Once the rescue squad has arrived and the child has improved, and appears to be all right and does not require hospitalization: it is very important that the child be taken to the child's pediatrician or local physician. There can be long-term changes in the lungs and it's important for the parents to keep in mind that a physician should see the child and that follow-up examinations be done to be certain there will be no permanent damage to the lungs. What if the child requires hospitalization?

Parents should be very aware that not all hospitals in their community are able to handle respiratory emergencies such as drowning, especially in children. It's extremely important for parents to check their own hospital's capabilities, and even hospitals do handle this kind of emergency.

Yes, there are other potential dangers that exist. For example, children also drown in bathtubs. Parents frequently forget, and for a very few moments, leave the child unattended. So remember, even in two or three inches of water, the potential for drowning does exist.

Also, in spite of Florida's boating laws, boats frequently do not provide flotation devices for every child on board. Parents should be very observant and compulsive about this.

Where should parents look for potential drowning hazards around the home? There have been many campaigns conducted to alert parents about potential fire hazards in the homes, locking up drugs and household cleaners, discarding old refrigerators, etc. Parents should also be tuned into looking for drowning hazards. A good example is a small backyard kiddie pool with two or three inches of water. It is a potential hazard. If a child is in or two of water, if a child is face down having been injured or in some other way immersed.

Also, look for those less obvious hazards such as a bog or swamp near the house or in the back yard. Usually with several inches of water in it and after a rain storm or certain times of the year, a child could get caught in underbrush and fall face down. . . another potential hazard.

Do's and don'ts of swimming

What kids need to know about swimming

- Swimming alone is taking a dangerous chance.
- Young children left alone in the water.
- Floating toys, like rafts, are fun and can keep you afloat.
- Parents should know you plan to swim and that is safe.

What to do when someone is drowning

- Never leave the drowning victim alone.
- Throw something to them that floats or pull them out with a rope or pole - don't jump in.
- Send someone else to dial 911. Start mouth to mouth resuscitation at once.

Once they are revived

- See a doctor to make sure no lung damage has occurred.

OUR HEALTH

by Dr. Jerome Z. Litt

OUTDOOR INSECT BITES

In the kingdom of the insects, it is we who are hunted. Mosquitoes, gnats, dermites, flies, fleas, and chiggers, not to mention bees, wasps and hornets, all can bite and sting, as do various ants and mites. They seem to bite and sting when nature is at its most beautiful, and in spots that are most inaccessible. It's kind of spooky. So if the summer doldrums are on you "speck" fishermen may not give these methods a try. The worst you can do is have an enjoyable vacation and when you get home, a tasty meal on the table.

Any questions you may have that are not dealt with in this column will be answered by sending same to me care of this paper.

There are of course many effective insect repellents, oils or waxy sticks, or even aerosols, that you can apply to exposed parts of the body to ward off these pests.

Although these preparations do work, they protect only where they're applied. Bear in mind that insects are at a different scale than we do. What may look like an insignificant little unprovoked streak to a human, say 1/16 of an inch wide, will look like an interstate highway to a flying pest intent on a meal.

By all means use an insect repellent when you're out in the wilds. But be aware of the effects of those biters and stingers that do get through the blockade of your repellent.

On a preparation like Camphor-Premie, which combines an effective antiseptic with a soothing and cooling anesthetic. This relieves the discomfort, be it itch, sting, or pain, and helps prevent infection. Camphor-Premie is available in a convenient gel, or can be slipped into a pocket or first aid kit for easy access during outdoor adventures.

TEXAS VENISON CHILI—Taste of the Old West

Looking for a way to use those extra pounds left over from that last hunting trip?

Try Texas Venison Chili, a special recipe that can be a hearty side dish or main course for summer picnics and outings.

Texas Venison Chili is just one of 18 original recipes found in an all-new cookbook, "Game Recipes From Marlin," published by the Marlin Firearms Company. This cookbook contains all the information needed to prepare delicious, easy-to-fix game dishes including large and small game, waterfowl and upland birds. The recipe book is also the outdoorman and his family, and anyone who loves the special excitement of down home dining.

"Game Recipes From Marlin" is offered by Marlin Firearms Company, 100 Kenna Drive, North Haven, Conn. 06460.

TEXAS VENISON CHILI

- |                                       |                            |
|---------------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 2 lbs. venison                        | 3 1/2 cups tomato sauce    |
| 1 cup vegetable oil                   | 1 cup white sauce          |
| 1 cup chopped onions                  | 1 cup water                |
| 2 cloves garlic, minced               | 1/2 tsp. salt              |
| 1 large green pepper, cut into strips | 1 tsp. flour               |
| 1 tsp. chili powder                   | 2 tsp. water               |
| 2 tsp. sugar                          | 2 cups cooked kidney beans |

Coarsely grind venison and brown in heated oil in pan. Add onions, garlic and green pepper and sauté until tender.

Add chili powder, sugar, tomatoes, tomato sauce, salt, then let mixture simmer for 10 minutes.

Chili is desired, stir in flour and water paste thickens.

5 minutes or until mixture thickens.

Just before serving, add the red kidney beans and heat an additional few minutes.

Absent ballots ready

Absentee ballots for the Sept. 9 primary election are now available for those voters who expect to be out of town or otherwise unable to go to the polls on election day, according to Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester.

Glades area residents can pick up the ballots at either the County Glades Office Building or the main office at 810 Datura St. in West Palm Beach.

Mrs. Winchester said any voter who will be out of town or unable to go to the polls can also get an absentee ballot by calling her office at 996-5586 or the local office at 996-4800. Mrs. Winchester said her office is also still registering voters for the Nov. 4 general election, although the voter books are closed for the two primaries.

The mobile registration unit will be in the Glades, for the third time, on Aug. 30, when it is slated to be at the Glades Plaza from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. in Belle Glade and from 3:30 to 8 p.m. in Pahokee, when it takes up a position in the parking lot of the Thruway Supermarket.

Farm Bureau speech contest announced

GAINESVILLE — "Agriculture — America's Lifeline" will be the topic of Florida Farm Bureau Federation's (FFBF) youth leadership contest.

The statewide contest is open to high school students in grades 9 through 11. Farm Bureau membership is not a requirement, according to the FFBF president.

"The future of agriculture depends upon the encouragement of all our youth to investigate and understand the problems facing agriculture today," said Walter J.

Kautz, head of the 91,000 member-family general farm organization.

Each county Farm Bureau will be permitted to sponsor one participant from their county, Kautz said. High schools will be encouraged to involve students in the county competition, he added.

The winner will be sent to the American Farm Bureau Federation 1981 Youth Leadership Conference in Missouri at FFBF's expense.

For more information, contact your local county Farm Bureau.

Racquetball tourney

BELLE GLADE — A racquetball tournament is being scheduled by the City Recreation Department at Airport Park for Sept. 20-21, according to Recreation Coordinator Mike Underwood.

"There will be mens singles and doubles and womens singles," Underwood said.

"There will also be a mixed doubles tournament."

He said the entry fee is $10 for singles and $5 per partner in doubles competition, with a deadline for entries set at noon, Sept. 15. Entry forms may be picked up at the Recreation Department.

Road Rallye planned

BELLE GLADE — An overnight road rallye is being planned for Sept. 13-14 by the City Recreation Department, according to Rallye Master Joe Fay.

"The cost is $55 per couple," Fay said, "which covers entrance fee, hotel room and the evening meal on Saturday. As in all our rallyes, awards will be given for first, second and third place finishes."

Fay said the city is required to make advanced reservations at the overnight stop so a pre-registration reply is necessary by Sept. 5.

He said the first car will leave Belle Glade City Hall parking lot at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 13. Cars should be at the parking lot no later than 8:30 a.m. that morning. Entries can expect to be back in Belle Glade by 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Nessmith files candidacy

PAULA NESSMITH

Paula Nessmith of Tequesta is one of the candidates for the District One of Palm Beach County School Board seat.

She said she has been a resident of Tequesta since 1962 and her husband, Al, is a local dentist. The Nessmiths have three children, one who graduated this year and the other two now enrolled in Jupiter Middle and High Schools.

"I believe I am well qualified to serve as a School Board Member," she said, "Because of my past experience as a volunteer in the Palm Beach County School System. If elected, I will have the time and the desire to be available to the people I serve, the school centers and I will fully carry out all school board assignments."

"My concern," Mrs. Nessmith said, "is that all students in Palm Beach County be offered excellence in education. We must provide classroom space, sufficient materials for learning, discipline and adequate employee salaries. School and community relationships need to be improved, with parents becoming more aware of their local schools, and working more closely with them. We need continued interest in, and support for the Community Schools."

Mrs. Nessmith has been an active volunteer in the Jupiter schools for the past 15 years. She has served on the Jupiter Elementary Advisory Committee, a past president and past secretary of the Elementary School PTA, a member of the Middle School PTA and has served on the Jupiter High School Advisory Committee for five years.

Project Rescue-- after school tutorial program lifts grades

By ALMA HENRY
PAHOKEE — "My mother and I are more than just mother and son, we are partners, we study together daily", was just one of the many sentiments echoed by students enrolled in the Project Rescue Home-Study Program.

Project Rescue an alternative educational program established in 1977 through the efforts of a group of concerned citizens of Palm Beach County who felt obligated to become involved in helping to solve the educational, social, and human problems brought to focus by minimum competency testing in the county schools. Seven learning skills centers were established to offer after school tutorial services to students in grades 4 through 12.

For the past two years,

Project Rescue has operated two centers in the Glades. At East Lake Middle School in Pahokee and Lake Shore Middle School and The Elks Club in Belle Glade.

Mrs. Elizabeth Munnings, executive director of the program said each center operates as a supportive supplementary alternative to the County Public School system.

"Since we arrived in the Glades two years ago, the community's support has grown daily and as a result many of the students who registered at the center as underachievers are among some of the top students in their class," she said.

Mrs. Munnings said emphasis is placed on enhancing self concept, health and vocational awareness.

Funded by the Comprehensive Employment Training

Act, approved by the Palm Beach County Commission and endorsed by the Palm Beach County School Board, Mrs. Munnings said all services of Project Rescue are provided without charge.

Students can be referred to Project Rescue by the school's principal, counselors, parent or even the student if he or she feels they can benefit by the center may enroll.

Mrs. Munnings said students are accepted without regard to race, creed, color, sex, age, religion or national origin and a highly professional staff operates each center.

The center's each have a director, administrative assistant, social worker, teachers, teacher aides, and parent aides and are backed by a psychologist, health specialist, research evaluator and vocational counselors in addition to support coming from consultants and volunteers from each community.

In Belle Glade, Willie McDonald is serving as the center director.

"During the summer months, Mr. McDonald and his staff worked during the morning and evening hours with students at the Everglades Lodge at 416 S.W. Ave. C," said Munnings.

"However with school scheduled to begin next week, the hours will be changed to 3 to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday," she added.

Roosevelt Mitchell is director of the Pahokee Center, and classes are held from 3 to 9 p.m. also, at East Lake Middle School.

For the past ten weeks, students and their parents at both centers participated in a special home-study program, said Munnings.

"Each student had to complete a lesson a week, which the student mailed to a special center. In a matter of days the students received a letter addressed to them containing the students' grade on the lesson," she said.

This special project funded for the first time this spring served as a means to bring parents and students closer together and to develop family awareness of the necessity for education, she added.

The ten week series geared to each student's grade level on a national level, Mrs. Munnings said also was designed to help build self esteem for the student.

At a luncheon held at the Holiday Inn in Belle Glade Saturday, Project Rescue honored students and their parents enrolled in the project.

Commissioner Bill Bailey, representative of the Glades, area, Daniel Bythwood, Human Relations Counselor with Palm Beach County School spoke at the luncheon.

Bythwood told the group he was honored to have been invited to attend the luncheon and speak before the group but wished more parents could have participated in the program, especially fathers.

"Students will strive to obtain seemingly impossible goals if they know their parents are supporting them," said Bythwood.

Commissioner Bailey said he was pleased to have the approval of the county commissioners behind the project.

During the luncheon, Mrs. Munnings and Walter T.

Smith, informative officer and assistant director of the program presented certificates to students completing the project.

The students also received a patch and a t-shirt for their efforts.

Mrs. Munnings said persons interested in enrolling in the fall program may visit either center in the Glades and enroll and contact the administrative office at 615 Iris Street, West Palm Beach or call 805-538-2555.

Hicks to attend Tuskegee

SOUTH BAY — Miss Conchita Hicks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hicks will be departing for Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Ala., Friday. Miss Hicks a recent graduate of Glades Central Community School, where she was a member of the varsity cheerleader squad, chorus and co-captain of the volleyball team plans to seek a degree in Elementary and Special Education at the Institute.

FIFTEEN STUDENTS in the Home-study program in Pahokee received awards from Daniel Bythwood at an awards luncheon held at the Holiday Inn Saturday. Receiving certificates for completion of the program were Juan Perryman, Sheronda D. Brown, Vonzie Patterson, Marla Brown, Taschel Jones, Valeron Jones, Lovonda Jones, Katurah Williams, John Davis, Connie Boldin, Tarsheka Rowe, Eddie McCall, Christina Brown, Edward Patterson and Tonya Royals.

Tuskegee accepts Fuse

SOUTH BAY — Ms. Bernadette Fuse, a 1980 graduate of Glades Central High School has been accepted at Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Ala., a four year liberal arts college.

"Why spend money on electricity when you could spend it on something else?"

Watt-Wise Living" pays. Just ask Mr. and Mrs. Renaud of West Palm Beach. They've been saving on their electric bill ever since they moved into their new home. Their average monthly bills in their centrally air conditioned four-bedroom home have been around $80 in the summer months, $65 in winter.

What's Watt-Wise Living? It's a combination of features that meet FPL's energy-saving standards and can be easily included in the construction of a new home. Over a period of years they can save you substantially more than they cost.

Watt-Wise" homes have cost-saving features like extra ceiling and wall insulation, solar or heat-recovery units for water heating, a higher-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump. Rower savers like fluorescent lighting and doors, with glass areas planned to minimize heat build-up.

Today, there are many ways to save on electricity without giving up comfort. You'll find them in FPL's Watt-Wise Living Program. Today, it's one of the wisest investments you could make. Stop by your local FPL office and pick up a free brochure.

CCE makes days brighter for the Glades elderly

By AILSA DEWING

The lives of the elderly can be a bleak succession of day-in day-out loneliness, pain, and uselessness. Too little strength to cook, clean, or care for themselves. No appetite to eat in solitude.

Desperate to stay at home and preserve some semblance of independence, they live with a philosophy of "Maybe tomorrow I'll feel better and I can do a little something."

Meanwhile, home turns to hovel as dirt and litter collect. The unwashed clothes gather, the bed goes unchanged, and garbage is unemptied.

And how does it end? With a fall or an illness that leaves them alone and helpless, praying for help that may come too late?

There is help, however, here and now, and it's being provided by Community Care for the Elderly. From the center at 1525 NW Avenue L in Belle Glade, helping hands reach out to aid the old and incapacitated with a variety of services.

No longer need the homebound feel isolated, for example. They know that every day the phone will ring with a reassuring call from Annie Boldin. Four hours every day Mrs. Boldin is on the phone, checking to see if they are alright, ask if they need anything, and spend a few moments chatting with them.

"I've talked to hundreds of people out there and I've never met but a few of them face-to-face," she says.

Right now she has a "back-up" number — a neighbor, friend, or relative to call who will find out why Mrs. Boldin isn't getting any answer.

Each day two vans lettered "Operation Concern" leave the center on assigned routes, picking up passengers in the morning to take them shopping, to the doctor or dentist, on whatever errand is at hand, and ranging from Canal Point and Pahokee to Belle Glade, South Bay and Lake Harbor.

Overseeing the bus routes and scheduling, in addition to the maintenance of the vehicles is Lulu Hamilton.

Afternoons, the 16-passenger van and the 20-seat bus, take their charges to the Glades Central High School cafeteria for a hot meal under the auspices of the Palm Beach County Nutrition Program, and an hour or two of games and socializing.

Other days, the vans head for the center itself where Effie McNair and her staff have arranged a recreational or educational program.

The programs range from films supplied by the Belle Glade Library to speakers from various agencies who advise the senior citizens on such subjects as social security changes, food stamp procedures, fire and police safety.

One group is learning to read and write, reports Mrs. McNair, who began working at the center in 1977 and now serves as a site manager, overseeing both the recreational program and the Friendly Visitors project.

The Friendly Visitors and the Homemaker Service, under the supervision of Keith Babb, CCE coordinator, serve the needs of the homebound clients.

Working with both volunteer and paid staff members, the two services fill the needs of elderly people who live alone and are unable to cope on their own.

The Visitors fill temporary needs but both groups offer parallel services, doing light housekeeping, chores, cooking a meal, doing the laundry, offering some companionship, shopping and running errands.

"The purpose," explains Babb, "is to enable the ill or disabled individual to remain at home in familiar surroundings whenever possible."

It also permits some to cut down the length of a hospital stay at times, reducing the financial burden and freeing needed beds in hospitals or nursing homes, he adds.

"We try to prevent institutionalizing people. Sometimes they'd be better off in an institution, but the majority would rather be at home."

Another service under Babb is called "Chore" and it provides yard care and simple home repairs in addition to doing heavier household work.

As well as attempting to provide for the needs of any moving machinery.

But after looking back over last year's horoscope I've learned I spent a total 227 hours waiting by the phone for long lost friends or once in a lifetime opportunities. Neither of which either phoned or wrote.

On days I was forewarned to relax and take it easy, the boss's horoscope called for one of those "start early to accomplish a lot" days. Those days led to more threats of bodily injury than moving machinery did.

Naturally, I've tried some alternatives. Such as burning the entrails

With her mother bedridden, her father hospitalized and her husband an invalid — all of them in her care — Lois Mullis of Pahokee depends on the Respite program to relieve her for a few hours at a time. Keith Babb, CCE coordinator, stops at the Mullis home to review her needs and if they are being met.

A game of Bingo and an hour of socializing break up the day for mobile senior citizens shown at the Glades Central High School cafeteria where they also receive a hot meal through the Palm Beach County Nutritional Program.

Mary Thornton, right, serves four days as a paid Homemaker and the fifth day as a volunteer, as well as meeting the needs of her own five daughters. Julia Mae Lee, 89, has days she "just can't get out of bed." Julia Mae and Leon Taylor were farm workers in their younger days. Now both are confined to home by their infirmities.

To whom it may concern: I have come to the conclusion that my horoscope is a crock. And since I can no longer depend on the stars, I find myself temporarily without direction.

Although I don't have any guarantee of paradise either here or hereafter, could you at least send someone to hold my hand? An unemployed Samaritan or even a celestial travel agent, maybe?

It's not that I am overwhelmed with disappointment. After all, I survived earlier disillusionments such as Santa Claus, the tooth fairy, the US government and its currency, not to mention both the Republicans and Democrats.

But I am momentarily at odds. I always believed if I had all my cosmic ducks in a row I could lead a zippety-do-dah life. But "to the stars through difficulty" just isn't working out.

I merely ask that when I arise each day, I can know that if I get an early start, things will go well, or that I should stay home because a long lost friend is going to call or just because I should stay away from the elderly themselves, CCE also aids families trying to cope with the problems of an elderly relative living with them.

The daily phone calls of Annie Boldin, telephone reassurance agent based at the CCE center, let 67 homebound elderly know that someone cares. She calls them and helps them if they need it. Most of the people Annie talks with have never met her in person, she says.

A pause for a bit of conversation is welcomed by Boyd Phillips just as much as the sweeping up and tidying job Sonja Corbett of Friendly Visitors is doing in his Okeechobee Center house. Victim of a stroke, Phillips relies on Operation Concern to get to the grocery store and visits to the CCE center where he can watch television.

Project "Respite," for example, provides someone to stay temporarily with a homebound elderly patient. In Pahokee, Mrs. Morgan Mullis has the care of three invalids — her husband and her parents. While Mr. Mullis is able to move about, Mrs. Mullis's mother is bedridden. Her father is presently confined in Everglades Memorial Hospital. If it weren't for the Respite service, she would be unable to leave home to visit her father.

A fourth service under Babb's direction is called

See elderly p. 134

of a fowl at dawn to give me direction in my life. The prophecies I got came from the neighborhood where I was born. I happen if I tried that again. I need a non-psyche approach. I'm already too full of don't's.

I've tried bedrest, plenty of liquids and aspirin every two hours. I think that's for some other ailment.

Even the good old-fashioned advice to stand on my own two feet use a little common sense, and have faith in myself, isn't worth much because according to my zodiac sign I'm impulsive, dramatic and forceful. That sounds like I'm not the best one for me to depend on.

The only things I really can still believe in are death and taxes. Topics my horoscope never touches on.

Anyway, to whom it may concern, I really do need someone to hold my hand. But while I'm waiting I'll just shuffle through my Tarot cards until the telephone rings or the postman/knocks or my astrological answering service contacts me.

Today your boy's world is a wonderful place of trees and blue sky, puppy dogs and best friends. Perhaps his greatest decision is which tree to climb and how high to go.

But it won't always be so. As he grows, his choices must grow in scope and seriousness also.

Just as you today can't choose for him which tree to climb and how high; so also, as he grows in wisdom and stature, you cannot choose for him the proper values and goals for his life. But you can guide and direct him: in the ways you have found to be good and right.

Attend the church or synagogue of your choice and take your child with you.

Taking It From the Top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

The Church of Jesus Christ, the risen Lord, had grown and spread around the Roman Empire. There were many who were proclaiming the Good News of God in Jesus Christ.

The Apostle Paul came to Ephesus. There he found some disciples and he asked them, "Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you believed?"

From the time of the emergence of the Church at Pentecost the Holy Spirit has been promised to believers. Just before His ascension Jesus said "...you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you shall be my witnesses." The disciples at Ephesus had to answer Paul no, that they had not received the Holy Spirit. This meant that they had not received power and were unable to witness effectively.

The Holy Spirit was a part of the equipment of the believers of the early Church. Peter and John went to Samaria and when they found that the believers had not received the Holy Spirit, "They laid their hands upon them and they received the Holy Spirit." Acts 8:17.

Those who received the Holy Spirit were effective witnesses for Christ. The Holy Spirit is the agent of regeneration and conversion.

Not only does the Holy Spirit give power to the witness of Christ, but He also guides the one speaking for Christ. It is the Holy Spirit who changes the heart of the hearer of the Gospel.

The Holy Spirit is the power of the Church for combating the work of the Devil. The Holy Spirit works continually to purify the Church and keep it on the course of fulfilling Christ's commission.

The Holy Spirit is the strength of Christ in individuals also. He guides us and enables us to do all things in Christ. It is the Holy Spirit who enables us not only to accept Christ but also to live as He would want us to live.

From the above we see that the possession of the Holy Spirit is normative and necessary for the Church and the individual. The Church and each of us need the Holy Spirit.

Today the Holy Spirit has been contained by the majority of the Churches. The power must be allowed to flow through the Church as a whole and in our lives.

The power which is developed in a hydro-electric plant is only potential until it is tapped and used. The power which is given to us at baptism is only potential until we tap it and make use of it.

The Holy Spirit is given to us until Christ returns. Jesus tells us how important He is to us. John 14:26 - "I have told you all this while I am still here with you; but your Advocate, the Holy Spirit whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything, and will call to mind all that I have told you."

We need to be reminded. Advertisers spend millions of dollars reminding us of their products. With so many things on our minds and the many things we are trying to do, we need the Holy Spirit to jog our memories so that we do not forget what the mission of Christians is.

Let the Spirit, work in your life so that your words and actions witness to the risen Lord.

Have you received the Spirit? If yes, let Him work in order that the power of Christ may be seen in your life! If no, let Him change your life so that it is meaningful.

Do you have the Spirit? Accept God as Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, and the Spirit will come upon you. The Holy Spirit will then become a dominant, positive power for the good in your life and for Christ.

REV. JOSEPH SANTA BIBIANA

Two priests named to St. Philip Benizi Church

BELLE GLADE — The Rev. Joseph Santa Bibiana, S.D.B., has been assigned as pastor of St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church, succeeding the Rev. Paul Shaghy, who was recently transferred to the parish of St. Charles Borromeo in Hallandale.

A native of Valencia, Spain, Father Santa Bibiana has been serving as financial administrator and principal of the St. Dominic Savio High School in Boston.

In Spain, Father Santa Bibiana joined the Salesians of St. John Bosco and after his religious profession in 1956 was sent to the U.S. He graduated from Don Bosco College in Newton, N.J., and holds a master's degree in education from St. John's University.

He also served as a teacher, principal and financial advisor at Mary Help of Christians School for Boys in Tampa for 10 years.

An associate pastor will also join Father Santa Bibiana in serving St. Philip parishioners. He is the Rev. Vincent Villar, S.D.B., a native of Cuba. Formerly on the faculty of Don Bosco College, Father Villar is currently with the Salesian Parish of St. Anthony in Paterson, N.J.

Brown ends military law training

Navy Ensign Clarence L. Brown, son of Clarence L. Brown of 560 SW Third St., Belle Glade, has completed the Lawyer's Military Justice Course.

During the eight-week curriculum at the Naval Justice School, Newport, R.I., newly-commissioned Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard lawyers study the application of their prior law school training and legal knowledge to the military community.

Instruction is designed to provide a thorough working knowledge of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. During classroom sessions, seminars, case studies and individual research, future military advocates study the rules of evidence, in-service legal assistance programs and the procedures for courts-martial, boards of inquiry and investigations.

Brown is a 1974 graduate of Glades Central High School and a 1979 graduate of Florida A&M University, Tallahassee, with a bachelor of science degree.

Guthrie-Perkins wedding

Marjorie S. Guthrie and Kenneth L. Perkins will make their home in Belle Glade following their wedding at 1 p.m. August 23 in the East side Baptist Church, LaBelle.

Miss Guthrie is the daughter of Myrtle Hewitt of Indian-town. Mr. Perkins is the son of Judy Cross, LaBelle.

The engaged couple are former residents of Okecho-bee and graduates of Okecho-bee High School. Miss Guthrie attended Franklin University, Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Perkins attended International Technical Institute in Tampa and is employed by Perkins Farms.

Friends and family are invited to the wedding ceremony and to the reception to be held afterward in the church hall.

Glass-Wilkinson wedding Saturday

A 2 p.m. ceremony Saturday, August 23, in the Holy Nativity Episcopal Church, Pahokee, will unite Miss Theresa Gayle Wilkinson and Jack Alvin Glass in marriage.

Miss Wilkinson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Wilkinson, 1597 Bacon Point Rd. Mr. Glass is the son of Thomas A. Glass of Belle Glade and Mrs. Manuel Brito, West Palm Beach. No invitations are being sent locally. Friends and relatives are invited to attend the ceremony and the reception in the parish hall, 1020 E. Main St.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Ralph Banks, rector of the Holy Nativity Church.

Woman's Club is scene of wedding

The Pahokee Woman's Club was the scene of the August 11 wedding of Sherry Rekus and Ernest C. Johnson.

The marriage service was performed by Maria Buebe in an 8 p.m. candlelight ceremony.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of rose and dusty blue patterned beige voile created by her mother and carried a traditional cascade bouquet of spring flowers.

Serving as maid of honor was Karen Gatewood, sister of the groom. Steve Johnson attended his brother as best man. The bride was escorted by her son, Eric Rekus and children of the couple, Allison Rekus and Ernest Johnson served as flower girl and ring bearer.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rippy of Lake Ozark, Mo. Mr. Johnson is the son of Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Pahokee, and the late Dr. E. C. Johnson.

The ceremony was followed by a champagne reception. The wedding cake was made by the groom's sister, Ethel Rayburn.

1st degree murder charged

BELLE GLADE - Robert Lee Watson, 48, of 584 S.W. Seventh St., is being held in county jail in lieu of $12,000 bond after he appeared before County Judge Don T. Adams on a charge of attempted first-degree murder.

Adams refused any reduction in the bond on Watson, who was arrested Sunday night in connection with the shooting of William Jacobs, 48, of 612 S.W. Ave. E.

Assistant Public Defender Larry Duffy was appointed to represent Watson.

Watson also is facing an aggravated battery charge arising from an earlier incident filed with the circuit court clerk's office.

Patrolman Phil Sanfilippo and L.D. Grievé arrested Watson in the 500 block of Southwest Seventh Street Saturday afternoon.

Detective John Carney said the two men had been in an argument with Watson left to get over guns.

He returned with a .22 caliber weapon and fired 12 shots at Jacobs as he was sitting in bed.

Jacobs was found in his apartment and was taken to Glades General Hospital.

Police Report - in an argument with a 21-year-old woman, and was kicked by a man before being hit.

Patrolman Jack Fulenwider found the weapon, a box cutter in the area. The case was referred to the Assistant State Attorney Michael Miller for further action.

TV missing - Belle Glade - The Belle Glade Police Department investigated the theft of a color television from the home of James M. Thomas, 33, of 693 S.W. Fifth St.

Thomas reported to Patrolman Michael Johnson he was returning home Sunday when he heard a radio playing in his apartment. He went to call police, but the intruders were gone when Johnson returned.

Johnson said the thieves entered through a side door on the north side of the apartment and stole a television set valued at $100.

Loaded gun - PAHOKEE - A 42-year-old Pahokee man was arrested Sunday and charged with reckless display of a fire arm.

Patrolman Eldridge Bryant of the Pahokee Police Department said Silvia Davis 24, of 400 Shirley Dr., reported Bobbie Lee Glasgow of 172 Carver Place was handling a .22 caliber weapon in a reckless manner and ran everybody out of an alley.

Bryant reported Glasgow said he had the gun out to look at it to his mother's house. Bryant said the rifle was loaded. The case was referred to the Assistant State Attorney's office.

5 to head CF drive - Four women and one man in the Glades area named this week to head fund raising bike-a-thons for two municipalities and two unincorporated areas west of 20 Mile Bend.

The five volunteers were among 18 chosen throughout Palm Beach County according to Larry Seger of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in Clearwater. The honorary chairwoman for the state-wide program is Chris Evert Lloyd.

Funds for rained-out farmers - Farmers who suffered damages to crops during the heavy rains between Mar. 15 and May 15 in Palm Beach County are eligible for assistance through Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) according to an announcement last week by U.S. Congressman Dan Mica.

Mica's statement indicated the farmers may apply for loans to correct crop and physical damages caused by the heavy rains any time during the next nine months.

The loans he said, will be made at a 5 percent interest rate.

The applications should be filed with FmHA office in West Palm Beach.

Operation Concern buses are a familiar sight in the Glades as they transport the elderly to their shopping, keep medical appointments, and do other errands. One or two drivers, Angelita Victoria, pauses by the bus after delivering her passengers to GCHS.

"Mini Family Day Care" and provide home care where the only relative must work and the elderly relative is homebound.

The services directed by Babb were only started in March and they have quickly outgrown the available funding for this year. Beginning with 15 referrals, 60 people are now being served and Babb says there is a crucial need for volunteer help.

"Whether anyone can volunteer for an hour or for 40 hours, we could use their help," says Babb and asks that prospective volunteers call him at 996-1771.

Funding for CCE is coordinated through the Gulfstream Area-wide Council on Aging which has been seeking additional funds from local communities and has requested help from both the Belle Glade and Pahokee city commissioners. Earlier this month, Belle Glade commissioners approved a $1,000 contribution.

Under the provisions of federal funding for programs for the elderly, anyone over the age of 60 is entitled to assistance without showing financial need. The purpose is the provide whatever help the aged need without restricting it to economic necessity.

Services are provided under the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services Division of the Aging which determines case needs and approves them.

Whether CCE staffers are paid or volunteer, they gain an extra measure of satisfaction in the gratitude expressed by those they serve.

As one senior citizen wrote, "Thanks a million for sending this lady to my rescue."

Seeks Rusty Nail Prize
NEW YORK - Jim Gressinger of P. O. Box 859, Belle Glade is eligible to win a free trip to Scotland and $1,000 as a result of scoring a hole-in-one at the Lake Region Country Club.

Gressinger's ace qualified him for the 20th annual Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Liqueur Company of Edinburgh, Scotland.

The winner will be announced early next year.
